

White was the blizzard
of February 22, 1922!
Violets are blue,
Roses are red,

Instructions:

1. Fold the paper on the dotted line, historic images facing out.
2. Keeping this first fold in place, now fold along the solid line, keeping the historic images on the outside of the card and poem on the inside of the card.

1219 Nokomis Street
Alexandria MN 56308

320-762-0382

historic@dchsmn.org
dchsmn.org

Find us on Facebook and Instagram @dchsmn!

Douglas County Historical Society, MN.
Images are from the collection of the
Carry Largren, unknown, Dean/Bob Cordes, and Al Kitzke
Bob Cordes, Clarence Johnson, and Coleman Alstead
Potential identifications in the top photo, L-R:
Potential identifications in the bottom photo, L-R:
100 years ago in 1922, across Feb. 21-23, a heavy blizzard swept through Minnesota. These photographs, dated February 22, 1922, show the large piles of snow along Broadway Street in Alexandria, Minnesota. The
photographer of the bottom photo is standing on the east side of Broadway, looking northwest to the west 500s block.
February 22, 1922, show the large piles of snow along Broadway Street in Alexandria, Minnesota. The
photographer of the bottom photo is standing on the east side of Broadway, looking northwest to the west 500s block.

A "Two-Day" Blizzard

A special note for you...

